THE SHIPWRECKED MAN.

Upon a distant islet strand
A wanderer strays alone,
And listens to the gurgling waves
With their unceasing moan.

Above him lower the threatening clouds
Around him rage the seas,
But in his heart the tempests rage
Fiercer, by far, than these.

He thinks of home so far away,
Where he was loved so well:
But fat from where he went to roam,
And in distant lands to dwell.

He left with a buoyant step,
On a vessel outward going:
And day by day, and night by night
The wind was freshly blowing.

But when far upon the ocean blue,
A tempest wild arose.
And soon the gallant vessel lay
Writhing in death throes.

The sailors tried to save their lives
From the engulfing sea,
But all in vain, and on a lonely isle
A castaway is he.

Long weary years he watched for a sail,
But no help from mankind was given,
And now no longer he watches the sea
For his eyes are fixed on Heaven.

Cyclone Davis is said to have received his Christian name from the Cincinnati Enquirer's discription of a joint discussion between him and Gen. Harding of Kentucky, which read that Mr. Davis was a long, lank man resembling a Texas cowboy but Harding, at the close of the contest, looked as if a cyclone had struck him.

Is now firmly established in Texas, and has double daily train service between Fort Worth and points north, northwest and northeast. It is the only line to Kingfisher, Hennessey and El Reno in Oklahoma and the new cities of Enid and Pond Creek in the Cherokee Strip, the best line to Caldwell, Wellington, Wichita, Topeka and other prominent points in Kansas; to Denver, Colorado Springs and all Colorado, Utah and Pacific Coast Territory; to Kansas City, St Joseph, Omaha and Chicago. Everything that goes to make a first-class railroad can be found on the "Rock Island." The vestibule train leaving Fort Worth at 8:10 p. m., and arriving in Chicago second morning saves a business day, and there is no change of car of any class between Texas and Chicago.

LICK OBSERVATORY.

A Democrat Reporter Visits the Neighboring Planets and Forgets Her Sweet-Heart.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Oct. 3. 1893
To THE MCKINNEY DEMOCRAT.

Who has not gazed into the unfathomable heavens and felt the magnitude of this great system of nature that surrounds us? Who has not longed with unspeakable longing to know more of the worlds that surround us—whether the man in the moon wears side burns and a silk hat and if the red complexioned people on Jupiter have adopted crinoline or not?

Your correspondent and five other knowledge seekers gathered our robes about us and with a span of fresh, strong horses to our three seated carriage left the city of San Jose on one sunny afternoon recently to see what might be seen at the famous Lick observatory, on Mt. Hamilton, 28 miles away, the best equipped observatory in the world. Past vineyards richly ladened with the tempting grapes and orchards bowed down with their abundance of fruit, white cottages covered with hop vines and stately houses surrounded by magnificant trees, we reach Hall's Valley. From here the vineyards, orchards, houses and cottages cease and we have nature without any disfigurements by the hand of man. The California Laurel with its vivid green foliage shades the hardy mountain ferns—gorges half hidden by the shrub that bears the "snow berries" are seen here and there, while sometimes our road lies along a rocky canon hundreds of feet deep. Now we turn suddenly around a rocky projection and Smith's creek is immediately beneath us. This is an example of the mountain hotel that we are always reading of, it is white, clean and inviting. Situated in a narrow valley with hills around and Mt. Hamilton in front; roses, geraniums, pinks, lavender, helitrope and pansies right in the foreground and not fifty yards away Smith's creek babbling over its rocky bed, all go to make up the ideal resort of the mountains. Here we had lunch, rested, fed our horses then began to climb and climb again. From now on our road winds round and round. There, hardly fifteen feet below us, is the path we have just traveled, and above are tiers of paths that we must travel. Now we pass in to a bright ray of light from the fast declining sun, and lo! what a panorama is spread before our vision! There, to the north, we see the calm San Francisco bay, already in the shadow of the mountains, except on the farther side where the sunlight turns the crests of the rolling waves into molten silver. Away to the south and west spreads the rich Santa Clara valley, bounded on the farther side by the blue Santa Cruz mountains, and immediately underneath us the city of San Jose looks like a toy village of white and green. What vivid coloring! what magnificant combinations of lights and shades!—One thinks involuntarily that surely this is the stuff that poets are made of.

Well, we must go on. Fainter and fainter grows the light—there we see the first star that is soon followed by myriads of sisters that twinkle and dance far above us. The air gets colder and now we feel the wind rising, this next turn we might almost imagine that we were in Texas, such a strong blast meets us. At 7 o'clock we drive into the narrow strip that is bordered on one side with iron chains and on the other by the long massive building and go, with a feeling of fatigue, into the well lighted halls and parlors of the observatory. Here we register and vainly look for some one else from the Lone Star State until a German professor comes and we begin, with him, the tour of the building. The whole building has two walls, the outer one of sheet-iron and the inner of hard wood; this we are told is to keep the temperature in the house the same as that out side. One could run all round the building between the walls. The inner building seems to be fastened together by magic, for at the turning of a screw or the pressure of a button the floor will rise, a panel of the wall fly open or the huge dome itself turn back and the monster telescope swing around. The walls are full of unsuspected machinery and everything is managed by clock work. There are three principal telescopes, and countless small ones. I am not astronomer enough to give you a minute description of these instruments, but suffice it to say that they are the largest and most accurate ones in the world. The first planet viewed was Venus and I was almost sure that 'twas an electric light. I was looking at, because it seemed so near and so brilliant. A cluster of stars that were not visible to the naked eye were more vivid than any of the stars when viewed through the powerful glass. Jupiter, with his bands or bars and moons plainly visible, appeared about the size of the full moon. The moon itself was most wonderful, to me. The mountains, valleys and rough edges were so unlike the Silvery Queen's usual aspect that I could hardly realize that it was the same moon that I had been used to all my life. In my wonder at her altered appearance I forgot to look for my sweetheart, "the man in the moon," entirely. We started for San Jose at 10 o'clock and enjoyed the moonlight drive in the clear, cold atmosphere to the utmost, entered the sleeping town at 2:30 tired but happy and with the conviction that if we didn't know any more of the things above us, we had a better idea of some things around us.

I will drop you a few lines from this vicinity.

People are well up with their crops. But little cotton in the fields now.

Our town has improved much since I wrote you last.

Messrs Love & Erkson have put in a new gin on Main street and built a residence on North avenue. They have put up 460 bales to date.

J. C. Coffey, our estimable merchant, is building a residence in the north part of the city.

All that we need to complete our town is a real estate agent and a blacksmith. We don't need any more life insurance agents. We all got our dose of that sort of business long time ago.

Our alliance is not dead yet. E. F. England addressed the meeting last Saturday.

What,s the matter with the democrats? Cleveland has not gone back on anything, he is just as he has always been. You just voted for the wrong horse, that's all. Take your medicine. UNCLE MIKE.

A Trip On the Rock Island.

ROCK ISLAND R. R., Oct. 12, 1893.
Editor Democrat.

On the Rock Island bound for Chicago, without a stop only to feed, water, and take on the yaps that are going our way. We have just stopped at a station that no one knows the name of, or seems to care to know, with fair prospects of moving again soon. The conductor just told me he thought I was alive and would get into Chicago day after to morrow at 6 a. m. He passed on, and now another fool is trying to ask him more fool questions than I did. I would like to be a good natured conductor so I could tell so many people things that don't concern them in any way, and then be called back six thousand times a day to be asked if I said it. Then I would have a little fun with the boys who buy tickets. I'd charge every one of them four cents a mile, and make them set down before they fail. I never thought of it before, but I know I would make a good conductor (sick). I have such winning ways and love children, even if they are dirty. Why should we blame them in a dry country because they come along and put one hand on a pair of $3 pants (that we never paid for), even if they have got a large stick of candy in the other hand that has been sucked on both ends?

You will notice by the above that we have stopped again, and will likely wonder why I didn't stop before I started But you can't discourage me. One yap just fell onto me and nearly broke my neck, but I couldn't blame him. He wanted to find out why the cars didn't move along.

I thought I was going to enjoy myself, and I believe I will. There are some things that I like about an excursion, but when I look at my clothes it reminds me of that old summer kitchen where the hams hung when I was a boy. Still the conductor comes through with a look that says he can only buy clothes for himself, and, I suppose, wondering why people don't pay long cash for short rides. It is none of my business; but when I see the new towns in the finest country that lays out doors, except where they have inclosed it with buildings and tents, together with the people on this train (every seat taken, applications for more), I want to tell you, the Rock Island is the greatest road that ever waddled her way down into Texas. I don't know everybody that owns it, but she has my sincere thanks and all but four dollars of my money.

When I reflect, I can't decide the silver question. "NIE."

Hits the Nail Head.

The follwing is part of the charge of Judge Clint, of the Criminal District Court at Dallas, and it certainly hits the nail on the head.

"Again there are a group of offenses we may term "crimes against home," such as adultery, fornication, seduction, and slander. Good men know that the home dominates the church and state, and is the great neucleus arouud which devolves all other interests dear to our republican form of government. Especially should you carefully inquire into seduction and slander. In this country many noble brave girls are driven by dire necessity to go out into and battle with life to support self and many times a helpless family. They deserve the warmest admiration of all men. But there are a class of beings called by mistake men, whose cowardly and slanderous tongues and venal hearts attempt to malign the fair name and ruin the pure life of these helpless and guileless young heroines. Above all other classes the strong arm of the law should throw its protecting shield around this true type of womanhood that is not afraid or ashamed to labor, and the vile vulture who would despoil the good name or virtue of these young wards of the law should be taught by swift and severe punishment that in this fair land of ours the law is ever ready to be the champion of injured womanhood."

THE OLD-FASHIONED STYLE

of pill gives you a feeling of horror when you see it and when you feel it. Like the "blunderbuss" of a former decade it is big and clumsy, but not effective. In this century of enlightenment you have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which cure all liver troubles in the most effective way. They're not easily seen for they're small as grains of mustard seed, but the effect is lasting and the cure complete. For Indigestion, Constipation, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headache, nothing has been found to equal these pills of Dr. Pierce's invention. They give such complete relief that their makers promise that they'll give satisfaction or your money will be returned.

A plain statement of fact made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case, we'll pay you $500 in cash."

DEAR DOCTOR—It is with pleasure to state what you have done for my wife after thirty years' suffering with paralysis and stomach troubles. She is like a new woman, rests well, and goes about her business without pain. I must state, the first day and night's rest she had for years was after she commenced your treatment. I can cheerfully recommend you to the suffering people. I know of others who you cured, Dan Trigg and his wife.

Dr. R. P. Whiteaker, Sherman, Texas—Dear Doctor: This is to certify that I had catarrh of the head for seven years, and had been treated by four physicians of this city. They did me no good that I know of. The catarrh had eaten part of my nose and upper lip off. I was in a dreadful condition; had given up all hopes of being cured of that dreadful disease catarrh, but thank God the medicine you let me have cured me in about two months. There are a great many people who knew of my condition and know me now. God bless those who can cure the suffering people wherever they go is my prayer. I feel so grateful to you.

Dr. R. P. Whiteaker, Sherman—This is to certify that my wife had almost every symptom of nervous and physical disease, shortness of breath, general debility, kidney and bladder trouble, rheumatism, liver complaint; could not move without help for quite a while, under the treatment of other physicians. They gave her up as hopeless, as they could not cure her. Over one year ago by chance I got one of your testimonials and I got a treatment at once. In four days she was able to walk. It almost raised her from the grave. In six weeks she was well, and no stouter woman in the county. The people all over this section know her well. Also Mr. Silas Davis and his daughter were blind for years and you cured their eyes with your great discovery. Very sincerely and truly a friend of your cause.

The Democrat.

THE Senate has done nothing yet.

FRANK JAMES is in Dallas exhibiting some fine horses.

IN the last congress democrats criticised Tom Reed's rulings. Now they adopt the same.

The democratic party is hopelessly divided over the silver question, but both wings flop together over the spoils. —Dallas News.

Who said the Gal.-Dal. News could not tell the truth? Was it Farmer Bill Shaw?

IT is said on good authority that Governor Hogg will locate in Fort Worth after his present term of office expires to resume the practice of law. He may seek a partnership with Judge T. L. Nugent. He could do no better.

BILL SHAW, of the Texas Farmer, is still mad as a wet hen at Cleveland, Clark, Cuney and the Coons. He rushes around in the political barn yard snuffing at every thing in sight. Bill is "about the biggest crank in the state".

UNCLE SAM has 5000 tons of silver locked up. Of this there are $151,000,000 standard dollars, and $53,000 that might be used in making change. If this money was turned loose what a jingling would begin.—Fort Worth Gazette.

SENATOR ALLEN, the populist senator of Nebraska made a fifteen hour speech the other day in the senate on the silver question. He stood on his feet the entire time and it is said to be the longest speech on record. He was highly complimented by that august body.

THE state press boys were out in full force at the Dallas fair last Monday. Gov. Hogg made the round with the boys, and made himself familliar and agreeable. On being ushered into the "august" presence of the editor of THE MCKINNEY DEMOCRAT, he smiled as though he had met an old time friend.

SEVERAL tramps were arrested and jailed in San Antonia last week on the charge of vagrancy. Gov. Hogg promptly notified the authorities of that city to release the prisoners, that the Lone Star State should not permit such punishment to be meeted out to poor unfortunates who were unable to get work. Good for Gov. Hogg.

When Gov. Hogg makes an assignment of the state's business we ask that Judge T. L Nugent be appointed trustee.—McKinney "Democrat."

Gov. Hogg will make no assignment and T. L. Nugent will still be a private citizen. Why don't you state a truth and say that Texas is more prosperous now than any state in the union. —Van Alstyne News.

My Dear Sir: We got our information from your boss, Gov. Hogg. We supposed that his excellency could state the truth." He said the state was out of funds; of course when a state or an individual is out of funds, it or he is busted.

It is said that Farmer Shaw's subscribers are making up money to send him to an agricultural college.

THE real status of democracy in Nebraska may be judged by the last election:

Rebublican, 85,213.

Populist, 82,256.

Democratic, 24,493.

Secretay Morton's victory over Bryan, from this showing, is a "great cry for little wool." —National Watchman.

In nominating Walter Q. Gresham, at the Chicago republican convention of 1892, Bob Ingersoll said that any people who produced raw material and sold it as such, must remain poor, ignorant, and democratic. Yet a democratic president has thought fit to make, Mr. Greham secretary of state, to the neglect of the entire democratic party. Ponder this, ye democrats, who are so completely enslaved to the old party lash.

During the last thirty years wealth has increased in our nation at the rate of $250,000 per hour, or $70 per second. Yet we are suffering all the baleful consequences of hard times, the people are in a state of destitution, and five million tramps fill the land. Bad laws have produced this condition. By whom were they made? Both democrats and republicans are equally responsible for the evils now oppressing the people.—Mercury.

"The national conscience is dead. Every distillery in the country is in partnership with the United States. I would as soon hunt a polar bear in the torrid regions as to hunt conscience in the American congress. When 7000 good temperance women petition congress to modify the liquor laws those old red nosed devils just put that prayer under their feet. But when the liquor men ask anything they say, 'all right gentlemen; you can get anything you want.' And your Texas legislature, I mean the red nose crowd that adjourned a few months since, what did they care for morality and sobriety? I would venture to say there were not ten men with a conscience in the entire crowd. And when I say that, every little red nosed politician will get up and say: 'I are one of them ten.'"—Sam Jones at Paris.

THAT President Cleveland intended to make a race for a third term there is not the least doubt. He began his administration by official appointments tending in that direction, and has given every appointment of any importance his personal supervision. In every case it was with the single object of future use. The democracy have rebelled against his autocratic domination to such an extent that a third term would now be impossible. Realizing this Mr. Cleveland has suddenly ceased to supervise appointments, and has turned the matter over to the various heads of departments. This is a complete surrender, and marks the down fall of the reign of the Cleveland dynasty. It will be noticed that the papers are no longer filled with baby Ruth and other silly toadying regarding the President and family, and also that a fling at the President semi occasionally is always greeted with seeming relish. One man power in this country can never stand the test of American citizenship.—National Watchman.

To the Texas Press Gang.

Looking forward to the annual excursion in May, 1894, would it not be a good idea to make a supreme effort to advertise the Lone Star State? Let us emulate the California boys by showing up our products. The newspapers in each section can certainly arouse an interest. If we cannot get up an exhibit, let us at least prepare plenty of literature. Let us go "loaded for bear."

POPULISTS ACCESSION.

The democrats of Nebraska by a vote of 4 to 1 adopted a platform containing the following hearty indorsement of Pres dent Cleveland:

We, the representatives of the democratic party in Nebraska, in state convention assembled, send congratulations to our president, Grover Cleaveland, and renew the expressions of our confidence and pride in his patriotism, courage, and wisdom. We heartily indorse the administration of Cleveland, reaffirm the truths so forcibly set forth by the president in his message to the special session of congress, favor his recommendation to congress therein made for the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act, and call upon the United States senators to speedily pass the pending bill for the prompt and unconditional repeal of that vicious law.

It was this declaration that caused Congressman Bryan to bolt and practically align himself with the populists. Will the next to follow in the tracks of the silver-tongued Nebraskan be Bland, the leader of the anti-Cleveland free and unlimited coinage democrats in congress, or will they eventually follow in a simultaneous stampede for the populist camp? The not distant future will tell. —Dallas News.

Let them come; "the vilest sinner may return."

Bob Ingersoll on Silver.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 15—Robert G. Ingersoll, in an interview here, said:

"I am and always have been a bimetallist. I want a currency that will be good in every country of the world at any time, and I want to see the day when it can be relied upon that however threatening the financial aspect, there will always be plenty of money. I am afraid that such a time is a long way off; however, I have never been in favor of the Sherman law, but I do not think it should be repealed until some better measure can be substituted."

Senator Coke Stands Firm.

Mr. H. L. Sides, a populist, hands the following to THE DEMOCRAT:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
Sept. 29, 1893.

Mr. H. L. SIDES,
Farmersville, Texas:

My Dear Sir—I have received your letter informing me that you had read my speech on the silver question, and expressing yourself pleased with it. I assure you that I appreciate the letter and the kindly expressions of your judgment about the speech. Simply discharge what I believe to be my duty to the people of Texas, in the position I take on that question; and take pleasure in assuring you that I propose to stand steadily by it to the end. I have no interest here except to promote the interest of the people whom I represent; and as long as I know what that is, I propose to be faithful to it. I am glad to hear from you, as I am always to hear from any of my constituents, however great or however humble they may be.

Your friend, very truly,
RICH'D COKE.

The Dallas Fair.

We wish we had space in our columns to give a full description of the Dallas state fair exhibits. We visited the grounds last Monday, and found a nice display of manufactured and agricultural products. The live stock exhibit is simply immense, and lovers of horse racing can be highly entertained each day of the fair. The side attractions are numerous indeed, including a large group of Pueblo Indians, which can be seen free of charge. Samp son, the strongest man in the world, gives daily exhibitions of his strength, which is truly marvelous. It costs nothing to see him perform, with many other attractions at the Music Hall. F. P. Holland, of the Farm and Ranch, is on hand as usual, working like a beaver to entertain all comers and make the fair a success. The fair is an honor to the state, and deserves unstinted patronage. There has been a very low rate made by railroads, which will, undoubtedly, cause a good attendance.

The voice of the people is not heard through the senate It has too many members who prefer listening to their own voices.-Dallas News.

For Free Speech.

A decision of great interest to newspaper publishers has just been decided in a libel suit before the supreme court in California. A divorce case had been on trial before one of the courts and the judge ordered that the testimony be taken behind closed doors. The San Jose Mercury, however, obtained and printed the testimony, and the editor was promptly fined $100 for contempt of court. The supreme court has now decided in favor of the editor and against the judge, declaring that courts in this country have no right to do business in secret, that the paper had a right to publish the evidence, and that the rule giving the people the right to know what is done in court and the papers the right to publish it is essential to the public welfare. This decision seems founded upon common sense and a respect for the rights of the people.—Grand Rapids (Mich) Press.

AN APPEAL TO MANHOOD.

Mary Lease's Glowing Defense of Her Character as a Woman.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct 15.—Mrs. Mary Lease, in a public address at Lebanon, Smith county, yesterday, created a sensation by denouncing the editors of a local republican paper who had published a vile insinuation against that lady. Holding the paper at arm's length, she said: "This is the first time my character as a woman has ever been assailed in the newspapers. I am the daughter of a master Mason. I have been attacked by a member of that fraternity. Friends, I have been the mother of five children, and have trained and educated them as a true mother should. I have helped to educate the orphans of Masons. I have been a true wife and a virtuous woman. The man who would attack me in this insulting manner is a cowardly cur, and if the citizens of Smith county were true Americans those editors would be horsewhipped, and they would be any way if they were in my presence. Never before has there been a single similar utterance made about me. Any man who would debase himself and get so low as to attack a woman by such vile innuendoes is not fit to be a citizen of the United States or any enlightened nation."

The old soldier racket is played out both North and South. The old soldiers who did the fighting are at last learning that they have been used as cats' paws to rake chestnuts out of the fire for a lot of corrupt and scheming politicians, who care for nothing except the honors and emoluments of office. The largest accessions to the ranks of the People's party, North and South, are from the men who were fighting each other thirty years ago. This time they will fight together for the freedom, prosperity and happiness of all.—Fresno (Cal) Spectator.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Commissioner Lamereaux, of the general land office, has issued a circular letter saying that school lands in the Cherokee outlet are not open for settlement, nor are they for sale, being subject to lease only, and no one, not an actual lessee, will have the right to occupy them.

THE report of the Secretary of Treasury shows there is among the paper money $36,000,000 in ten thousand dollar bills; $14,000,000 in five thousand dollar bills, and $47,000,000 in one thousand dollar bills and $10,000,000 in five hundred dollar bills, making a total of $116,000,000 in small change for the farmer and laborer, ranging from five hundred dollars to ten thousand.

TREASURED MEMORIES.

BY HAZEL EYES.

For THE DEMOCRAT.]

Oh, tell me not that I'll forget
The pleasures we have known
In those fair days when friendship's spell
About our hearts was thrown;
When every moment growed to be
A messenger of peace to me.

No! there's enough in this harsh world,
This world so often set
Against us with its flinty face
To pardon and forget,
While there is nothing we can spare
That's loving, comforting, or fair.

For there are moments that may come
With trials in their train,
When, hope and confidence betrayed,
Will rack our hearts with pain,
Though forgiving wrongs we yet
Will find it harder to forget.

Why should we, then, forego the sweets
That memory will claim—
The calm delights that we have shared
In friendship's holy name—
When in the time of every ill
To think of them would cheer us still?

THE RUSTLER'S HOWL.

Shoot the long haired politician who says there cannot be democratic harmony in Texas, He ought to be ridden on a barb wire fence and his head sheared.—Wylie Rustler.

Tom, you should not talk about Congressman Bailey in such a manner.—McKinney DEMOCRAT.

The Rustler has no reference to Congressman Bailey, as he is a democrat and in favor of unity. But we had reference to the class who you associate with—namly, Bill Farmer, Harry Tracy and such political demagogues. Probably their hair is not long, because of poor stock. Now, Bro. Thompson, if your hair won't grow out long, just wash yourself and your subscribers will be greatly relieved. And if this don't cure you, we don't believe there is any remedy that will. —Wylie Rustler.

After reading the above nonsensical gush, one can realize why Tom failed to edit two papers. Tom is a pretty boy, but like many other green sprouts, he was pulled too soon for newspaper work.

American Independence and Foreign Domination.

Senator Cockrell was entirely right in pointing out the fact that the talk of "coinage by international agreement" is a humbug. It is the worst kind of fraudulent humbug. No one who has common sense and common knowledge of international politics has ever believed for an instant that England will consent to the free coinage of silver. It is a politician's trick to talk about postponing free coinage here until England consents.

The man who says he is in favor of free coinage if England will consent, is telling a falsehood. He means he is opposed to free coinage under any circumstances, but would rather not tell the truth about it.

Even if England would consent tomorrow to make an international agreement, governing our coinage, it would be a shame and disgrace for us to do it and any American politician consenting to such a base betrayal of our national independence should be execrated along with Benedict Arnold.

The control of coinage and of taxation are the highest prerogatives of the sovereignty of the American people. Those who say that the sovereignty of our people in the exercise of either of these prerogatives shall be limited by the will of foreign governments and shall not be exercised without the consent of foreign governments, are as imbecile as they are un American.

American national independence must be and it will be maintained. Under no circumstances must the American people abdicate their sovereignty or allow it to be limited by acknowledging the right of any foreign power to control their legislation.—St. Louis Chronicle.

Editor Dmeocrat.

Dear Sir. Enclosed find a money order for two dollars as subscription for THE DEMOCRAT, which is a welcome visitor in my family. Please note on tag the time of expiration. Would have attended to this matter sooner, but did not notice tag until a few days ago. I would recommend THE DEMOCRAT to all who are seeking reforomation.

Will, ere long, give your many readers a sketch of Collin county, 43 years ago, when the people paid their taxes with deer skins. Think to day of it. I am proud of your prosperity. Would like to see the population of Collin today, as I have the population of Collin 43 years ago. I was one of them at that time.

I would advise the young democrats to read THE DEMOCRAT for information. I have met many young men that did not know why they were democrats, only that "dad is one".

FARMERSVILLE, Collin Co., Tex., Oct. 16.—Yesterday afternoon the Farmersville oil mills, a $35,000 plant, containing several hundred bins of seed, caught fire in the third story of the main building, where the linters are located, and in a short time the upper part of the building was aflame, but a large stream of water from the elevated water tank and with the use of fire extinguishers the structure was saved.

Last Friday a novel cotton scene was witnessed in McKinney. A row of cotton wagons extended from the scales near the alliance mill to the north east corner of the square thence around the south side of the Court House to the south west corner thereof, thence north past the Foote House to the end of Kentucky street, a distance of about one mile. Six hundred and seventy seven bales were weighed, and many were driven off to the country or to the wagon yards without being weighed. Collin is the guarden spot of the universe!

Last Monday while in Dallas we had the pleasure of visiting the office of Revenue Collector J. L. Doggett. Of course we felt a timidity in being ushered into the august presence of Hon. J. L. Doggett and his coterie of clerks, including Bob Woods and Walter Muse. Mr. Doggett, however, hastened to inform us that for the time being he would lay aside the cloak of dignity and the usual cold formality to such a condescending degree as to accommodate a citizen of Collin—especially a mugwump. After being treated to a number one "two for," we were shown through the handsome apartment of the federal building. The new addition of the building is nearly completed. After it is finished, the offices of the revenue collector will be located in the south-east part of the building on the second floor. Messrs. Doggett, Woods and Muse cordially invite old friends to call and see them.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. there is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearin, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearidg will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One hundred Dollars for any case of Deafnes (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Cutting Affray at Plano.

PLANO, Collin Co., Tex., Oct. 15.—August Krantz, a young German farmer, and Joe Smart, a smooth faced young man living in the country, engaged in a quarrel last night south of the Cotton Belt depot, which terminated in Krantz being cut twelve times, six of the stabs penetrating his lungs and two wounds in the region of the heart. Smart received several cuts on the head, evidently done with a closed knife or brass knucks. Krantz was picked up by his friends and brought back to town. His wounds are reported dangerous by the attending physician and likely to prove fatal. Smart was arrested by Marshal Rowland this morning and sent to the McKinney jail to await the result of Krantz' wounds, no bond being allowed him.

Preserve the Parity.

More than twenty years ago we established a parity between golden fruits and silver cents of 15 to 1 and have maintained it up to the present time—and, the Lord being willing, we will continue this adjustment to the end of time.

Those who are fearful of a flood of the cheap metal who may present $10 or more will have it redeemed at a parity of 10 to 1.

SAVE THE PEACH SEED

And send them to the McKINNEY NURSERIES this fall and receive $1 per bushel in trees at lowest cash rates. This parity will be preserved indefinately, but we wish the seed delivered immediately.

For ten dollars we sell 100 standard peach or apple trees of the finest and best varieties and all other stock correspondingly low. Send for our price list, showing the varieties best adapted to the climate and telling how to have fruit and plenty of it in all parts of Texas.

Sam'l of Posen is almost forgotten, but "The Phœnix," in which Curtis made his first hit in a Hebrew character, continues to rise from its perennial ashes.

FARMERSVILLE, Collin Co., Tex., Oct 16.—About five miles north of here yesterday afternoon a hired man at Mr. George Addison's was handling a pistol. It was accidentally discharged, the ball striking Mr. Addison's little 5-year-old boy in the left hip. It shattered the bone and lodged in the bowels. The little boy is alive, but is not expected to live.

The Opera House, Wednesday, Oct. 25.—'The Phoenix'

After seeing all of the modern melo dramas, native and imported, I come back to the old "Phoenix" with a sense of relief. It is incomparably better than any of them. There is something indescribably 'catching' in the play and the chief player. Year after year I find myself laughing at the quaint, curious, comicalities of the contributor to the "Chambermaids Own," wildly applauding the incomparable firescene, or holding my breath during the painful stillness of the gambling scene, and stamping vociferous approval of the well known climax. I have tried to analyze it to discover the secret of its vitality. Here is a play with nothing, save the story writing incident, to relieve it of common-place sensationalism, and yet for years it has been steadily growing in popular favor, until to-day it is recognized as one of the surest drawing cards on the road. It is the man not the play. I doubt if there is an actor who could get the meat out of that story-writing scene but Nobles himself. It is thoroughly his own. The man is a genius, and while on the stage pulls the play up to his own level. That's the secret of the perennial popularity of "The Phœnix," and I don't care who knows it.

Greenville Sensation.

THE KILLING OF ED DOGGETT.

Prominent Men Arrested Charged With the Assassination. The Examining Trial.

GREENVILLE, Tex., Oct. 12.—A sensation that eclipsed anything has happened since the Greenville bank robbery was created to-day, when Sheriff O'Neil arrested City Marshall Will Velvin, Capt. N. Anderson, his son Estes Anderson, and Police Officers Joe English and Lewis Luttrel on a warrant sworn out by John Dogget, charging them with the murder of Ed Doggett, committed on the night of Sept. 15, as he was on his way home.

An account of the murder was published in the News As will be remembered the slayer of the boy could not be found. It was conceded that whoever the man or men were that did the killing they did their work so well and secretly that no human ingenuity would ever unravel the mystery.

The fact that the men under arrest are highly connected in this city and hold the esteem of all citizens, made the news of their arrest fall like a thunder-bolt from a clear sky, and the only topic of conversation this afternoon is about the arrests and the final outcome of the affair.

In the complaint filed by John Doggett appears the names of over a dozen witnesses.

District Attorney Bennett was seen by a News reporter, but he would not talk about the case. The defendants announced that they were ready to give bail in any sum, but the district attorney would not agree that the case was bailable.

The examining trial of Anderson, English, Luttrel and Velvin began this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

E. W. Harris was the first witness put on the stand by the state. He testified that he was among the first to arrive at the dead body of Doggett the night he was killed. He could not remember seeing any of the defendants around the body, excepting Capt. Anderson and perhaps, Will Velvin. Harris had received an anonymous letter just before the shooting of Doggett and the letter had threatened Anderson and English. It was rumored that Doggett had written the letter. Harris had given the letter to Velvin and one day, just before the killing of Doggett, he had stepped into the first National bank and Cashier King and Officers Velvin, English and Luttrel were there discussing handwriting and Harris was sure that they were discussing anonymous letter that he had received. Among other things the letter contained was a threat that the bank would be robbed again and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and Cotton Belt trains would share a similar fate.

After the examination of Harris the state's attorney asked the court to make a statement as to the result of the examination of witnesses at the inquest. The News correspondent could not get the substance of that statement to-night, as the court adjourned at 9 o'clock until 8:30 to morrow morning.

GREENVILLE, Tex, Oct. 13—E. W. Harris' testimony was the last taken last night in the case of Luttrell, English, the two Andersons and Velvin, who are charged with killing Ed Doggett. Judge Elder, who was trying the case, was asked for a statement of evidence secured by him at the coroner's inquiry. He prepared that statement and read it in open court this morning. The substance of it was that Lewis Luttrell had testified that he was in the bank the day before the killing and that English, Velvin and Cashier King were there also, and that E. W. Harris came in while they were there; that an anonymous letter received by Harris a few days before was being discussed; that he did not remember the nature of the letter, as it was an anonymous one and as such was not worthy of notice. English had testified that he was at the Katy depot at the time the shooting was said to have occurred and that Luttrell was there with him, and that they started for the scene of the shooting as soon as they heard of it; that English stopped before arriving at the body, but that Luttrell went on.

Will Velvin, one of the defendants, appeared before the witness as a witness at the inquest, and swore that he had been at the bank on the day named and that to his knowledge he did not see the anonymous letter there; that he had seen the letter once before in the office of Mr. Harris; that Mr. Harris had gotten it out of the waste basket and showed it to him. He did not return the letter to Mr. Harris last Sunday, or if he did, he did not know it. He had never compared the handwriting on the letter with Ed Doggett's chirography. When the state's attorney asked if any of the defendants had sworn that they had never secured a sample of Doggett's handwriting witness stated that some one of them swore that such was not the case. The court testified that Mr. Velvin was the first man to talk to him after the killing, and that he assisted him to gather testimony for the inquest. Velvin handed the court a pistol just like the one exhibited in court, and told him that it was found near the body just under the right hand of Doggett's corpse. The court said he was informed that the weapon was hot and smoking when picked up.

John Doggett was sworn and stated that he was a brother of Ed Doggett and that he was in the country the night his brother was assassinated. That he came in next morning. He had not made an examination of the corpse but he had gone to the place where his brother was said to have fallen and made an examination of the ground. He found a pool of blood and two bullet holes in the sidewalk. The rest of his testimony was immaterial to the case.

After recess T. H. King, cashier of the First national bank, was placed on the stand and testified that Will Velvin came to the bank and showed him a letter that he supposed to be the letter received by Harris, and that after Velvin came in the other two officers, English and Luttrell, came in looking for him.

Mayor T. E Bird corroborated other testimony as to the position of the body after the killing and after the crowd arrived.

W. A. Nesbit testified that he loaned Luttrell a Smith & Wesson pistol on Friday afternoon before the killing Friday night. He said that Luttrell gave as his reason for borrowing the pistol, the excuse that he was going to be knocking around for a few days and that his own gun was too heavy Nesbit heard that a pistol corresponding to a description of his own had been found near the corpse and he went and got his the next morning.

After Nesbit's testimony was concluded Tom Miles was placed on the stand. He testified that he found a bullet where Doggett was killed and it fitted a 44-calibre cartridge.

Ed Harris was called, but his testimony was excluded by the court.

Ex Sheriff Jeff Mason was placed on the stand and testified to finding bullets near where Doggett fell. He produced the bullets in court.

Jim Hudspeth testified that he arrived at the scene of the murder a second after Velvin. He found a pistol near the body and it was hot from firing.

Court adjourned till 8 o'clock to morrow morning, when the trial will be resumed.

GREENVILLE, Tex, Oct. 14.—The examining trial of Anderson, English, Velvin and Luttrell, charged with killing Ed Doggett, was resumed to-day before Judge Elder. Jim Anderson was the first witness placed on the stand. His testimony was that he had gone to bed and was awakened by the shooting, and being a member of the fire company he thought that the shooting was a fire alarm. As soon as he heard that it was not for a fire alarm he went back to bed.

Will Evans, colored, testified that on the night of the shooting he attended a medicine show near the Beckham hotel, and that he came by the saloon on the northwest corner of the public square. He saw Luttrell standing on the corner in front of the saloon and saw some negro boys making a racket in the street and watched to see if the officer would arrest them. He saw a negro man and two women pass him going south. He started to go east and noticed Luttrell start south. Thinking there was going to be some arrest made, he said, he started to see what was up. Luttrell passed the negro man and two women on the west side of the square, and witness could not say whether he went south on Stonewall street or whether he went east or west. At the southwest corner of the square he overtook the negroes and they all stopped on the south side of the corner. He saw Will Velvin and Capt. Anderson standing on the opposite side of the street east of them. He saw Mr. Rosenberg and lady pass, going in the direction of the killing. Witness thought he stood on the corner some five or ten minutes before the shooting occurred. When he heard the shooting he and the man with him ran in the direction of the noise, south on Stonewall street. The balance of his testimony was not material.

J. V. Meadows testified that he had written a letter for Ed Dogget to a Kansas City paper, in which Doggett enquired the terms of that paper to agents and correspondents, as he was anxious to become the correspondent of that paper in order to get a chance to publish Luttrel for some wrong the deceased imagined Luttrell had done him.

John Brame testified that he was at a patent medicine show on the night of the killing in company with Doggett. He lives a little over a mile out of town. Doggett came to his house and they came to town together with Brame's younger brother. At the show and before it began they saw Lewis Luttrell eyeing them closely. After the show was over they went to the opera house and Doggett told his companions that he was afraid to pass the east line of the lumber yard, as some one had been laying for him there. After that the boys parted and the Brame boys had gone three or four blocks when they heard the shooting

John Hindly, colored, was placed on the stand and corroborated the other's testimony that Luttrell was standing on the northwest corner of the square about five or ten minutes before the shooting.

Max Patton testified that he had been in the saloon on the north side of the square and noticed the time of night. It was 10:30 or 10:35 o'clock. He went by the saloon on the northwest corner of the square and saw Luttrell leaning against a post, he went to his room, near by, and soon the shooting began. He ran down stairs and when he reached the street looked at his watch. It was 10:55.

County Attorney Huffor was placed on the stand and testified that he was in a saloon with English and Luttrell a short while before the shooting.

Dr. Peak was next sworn. He said that he lived near where the shooting occurred and had not retired when the killing was done. He took a light and went out on the front gallery. He saw a man running north on St. John street coming from where the shooting occurred. He recognized the man as Lewis Luttrell, but could not be positive that it was him though he was sure it was at the time.

After Dr. Peak's testimony court adjourned till Monday morning.

GREENVILLE, Hunt Co., Tex., Oct. 15—The examining trial of Anderson, Luttrell, Velvin and English, the officers who are charged with the killing of Ed Doggett, was resumed this, Sunday, morning. The examination of witnesses has been very slow and tedious.

F. P. Tincher testified that on the night of the shooting he was sleeping in the third story of the Levi building and could see objects very distinctly between the railroad and his room on St. John street; that soon after the shooting he saw a man running up St. John street toward his room, that he first thought the man was Luttrell but after he came closer to him he decided that he was mistaken and he could not positively identify the man.

Ed Parker, a bartender in the saloon on the northeast corner of the public square, testified that he saw Luttrell in the saloon awhile before the shooting and that he had a pistol in his hand, a 44-caliber in size; that the police officers made the saloon a sort of headquarters; that he did not know whether Luttrell took the pistol out with him before the shooting occurred.

Ben Askew, colored, was put on the stand and testified that he was at the saloon where Parker attends bar and that he saw Luttrell with a pistol like the one described by Parker.

A. H. Kibbe testified that he saw Estes Anderson on the night of the shooting and he was in front of the opera house when first seen; that he heard of the shooting of Doggett before he left the opera house.

Elmer Harrell testified that he saw English and Luttrell soon after the shooting on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad track near the Sherman, Shreveport & Southern roundhouse.

J. W. Jennett testified that he was awakened by the shooting and went out on his front gallery, that he saw men with a light in the rear of the lumber yard; that a few minutes after the shooting he saw a man going up St. John street at a rapid pace. He could not identify the man and could not identify whether he was white or black

R. R Neyland testified that he had been told by Velvin that a negro had gotten Ed Doggett to write a letter to another negro and that it was used to compare the hand writing of Doggett and that of the annonymous letter.

The court adjourned until 8:30 Monday morning.

GREENVILLE, Hunt Co., Tex., Oct. 16.—The trial of the two Andersons, Velvin, English and Luttrell, was resumed this morning.

John Turner, colored, was the first witness to testify. He said that on the night of the killing he was on his way home in company with Ed Strickland and near the lumber yard where the shooting occured they were overtaken by two men walking a little faster than they were. They stopped to let them pass, but they remained behind. Turner went on to his home about eighty yards further and when he looked back he could not see the men. One of them was in his shirt sleeves and the other had on a coat. He did not think either of them were officers. If they had been he would have noticed it.

Miss Nora Ward, who lives near the home of Capt. Anderson, saw Estes Anderson going home soon after the shooting, but could not tell how long.

J. L. Ward, living at the same place, testified that he recognized the walk of Estes Anderson as he passed his house a few minutes after the shooting.

Mrs. M. E Horn testified that she lived near the home of Capt. Anderson on the night of the killing and that a few minutes after the shooting she heard Estes Anderson come home and that she heard him say that he would shoot any d—n s—n of a b—h that would treat his father or do to his father what he did. She thought that occured half an hour after the shooting. The only way that witness could tell that it was Estes Anderson that she heard was by his voice, which she recognized as his.

Mrs. Geisenhoner testified that she was on the front gallery of her house near where the shooting occurred and that soon after the firing ceased she saw two men come running up the street, going westward. They came from the direction of the shooting. She thought one was a little taller than the other. The men ran in the direction of the East Line round house. One of the men had his hat pulled down over his eyes.

Ed Blevins testified that he lived twelve miles south of town and that he was in town the night that Ed Doggett was killed. He passed by the East Line lumber company's shed and saw a man sitting in the front of the office on the outside. The man had a heavy slouch hat pulled down over his eyes. He spoke, but the stranger did not respond. He then asked him what he was doing there and still received no response. The stranger pushed back his hat and he got a good view of his face. His complexion was light and he had on a light suit of clothes and wore a light mustache. The witness thought that he would recognize him anywhere. Witness was acquainted with Officers English, Velvin and Luttrell and knew it was not either one of them. Capt. Anderson was pointed out to him and he stated it was not him. Estes Anderson was then pointed out to him and he was certain it was not him as he was not of the same complexion as the man he saw at the lumber yard. Witness saw the stranger at the yard about 8:40 or about an hour before the shooting of Doggett.

M. V. Nelson and Belle Nelson, his wife, testified to seeing two men running in the direction of the East Line roundhouse soon after the shooting; they were of the opinion that one was taller than the other.

Here the state rested its case and the defense, after a few minutes conversation, introduced Will Quarels, who testified that he went to the opera house on the night of the shooting in company with Estes Anderson, and that he was in company with him from 8 o'clock till about 11; that he heard of the shooting of Doggett as soon as he got out of the opera house and that Estes Anderson was with him then; that Anderson was not out of sight after about 8 o'clock till after the shooting

Cam Davidson testified that he saw Estes Anderson at the opera house and saw him come down and heard some one tell him that Ed Doggett had been killed.

Hollis Schreiber testified that he saw Estes Anderson in the opera house until after the shooting.

John Cooper saw Anderson in the opera house during the last act of the play and saw him leave the house.

The defense rested the case here and it was submitted to the court without argument. The court decided that the case was bailable and set the bail in each case at $3000, which they readily gave.

"TO ALL CATARRH SUFFERERS.

I Recommend Pe-ru-na," Says Mary Massay, Clinton, Tex.

SHE SPEAKS FROM EXPERIENCE.

The tendency of catarrh of of the head is to pass downward through the bronchial tubes to the lungs. Any one who has had catarrh of the the head a year or more finds the disease gradually progressing downwards. In some cases the progress is papid, and in other cases it is slow; but, sooner or later, if catarrh is allowed to run, it will go to the lungs and set up the disease known as consumption. It is doubtful if consumption is ever caused by anything except catarrh.

The catarrh usually begins as a cold in the head or throat and is neglected until it becomes chronic; then it begins to dawn on the victim that he has catarrh. Unless he is very foolish indeed he will not rest easy until the catarrh is entirely cured. Thousands pay no attention to it until it is too late.

If Pe-ru-na is used the cold never becomes chronic, and hence catarrh is prevented. But after catarrh has become thoroughly established Pe-ru-na will cure it, but it will take much longer. Even in cases where the catarrh has already attacked the lungs and the symptoms of consumption have shown themselves the Pe-ru-na will cure. A great many cases of genuine consumption have been cured with Pe-ru-na after the patient had been given up to die.

For further particulars send to The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, for a free copy of "Climatic Diseases," which gives much information on catarrhal diseases.

Changing Diseases.

In that delightful book, "Rider Grange," the husband of Pomona gives as his reason for not removing from a malaria neighborhood, that it don't do for a man at his time of life to go about changing his diseases and adding, that there are diseases incident to almost every locality, and he likes a disease he is used to.

Now, in case of malarial diseases, aside from the unwilling ness of patients to "change diseases," it is generally not convenient to change their residences. If this were done in every case, some of our most thriving communities would be depopulated.

Nothing is left to do therefore but to fortify oneself against malarial influences. For this purpose Drs. Starkey & Palen's Compound Oxygen has proved itself in the past 23 years the most efficient thing in the world.

Any person desiring to change diseases for health should write to us a plain statement of their case, when, if possible, the way will be pointed out. The consultation is without charge. Address Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch Street Philadelphia, San Francisco or New York, and Toronto, Ont.
